Comments

1. In the balance sheet, the bond loan is presented net of prepaid financing costs, which are amortized over the term of the loan. This net figure is adjusted in the calculation of net debt to present a net debt position that reflects the actual proceeds received from the bond loan.
2. Share-based compensation refers to issued consideration shares in Sparc Group where there is a clause that Sparc Group's majority owner has a right to acquire these shares at a predetermined discount if the employment is terminated and is treated as compensation for continued service and expensed over the 36 months that are reinvested after the sale.
3. Proforma acquisition adjustment represent the additional EBITDA of the acquired subsidiaries prior to their acquisition date in order to present a total EBITDA as if they were acquired at the beginning of the twelve-month period.
4. Items affecting comparability includes start-up cost for production developement, decomissioning and restructuring costs and other non-recurring items.
5. Transaction costs represent costs for acquistion and divestments of business combinations. These costs are excluded.
6. Proforma divested subsidiaries adjustment represent the reported EBITDA for entities that have been divested at the end of the period, as well as the reported gain or loss that occur at the time of divestment. These costs are excluded to present a total EBITDA as if these divested entities never were included in the period.
